Fr Scott Says: Monday is the feast day of St Josemaría Escrivá, a Spanish priest who lived from 1902 until 1975. He was one of six children. His father died when Josemaría was 24 years old, leaving him to simultaneously work to provide for his mother and siblings while studying for the priesthood. A few years later, Fr Josemaría attended a retreat at which he was inspired to begin a movement promoting holiness in daily life. He named his movement "Opus Dei", which translates into "work of God". Soon after religious persecution during the Spanish Civil War sent him into hiding. But eventually he would be able to return home and continue the growth of Opus Dei into the great organization it is today. Unfortunately the group has been given bad press but it is all through misunderstandings and fantasy in movies. St Josemaría was actually featured in the film There Be Dragons, though much of that movie is fictional. The truth is that Opus Dei is a Catholic organization aiding many religious and laypeople (single as well as married) to live out charity in their daily lives, fulfilling their personal, family, and social duties. St Josemaría Escrivá is a fabulous modern role model and example of living Catholic values.
